RE: Agenda Item F.3 EFH and RCA Amendment 28- Final Action

Dear Mr. Anderson, Pacific Fishery Management Council Chair and Mr. Oliver, Assistant Administrator, NOAA Fisheries:

We, the undersigned 27,715 residents of the United States and U.S. Territories, write to express our concern for the future of the ocean's living seafloor. Priority seafloor habitats, like cold-water corals, sponges, rocky reefs and underwater canyons provide essential habitat for the reproduction, feeding, growth and shelter of many species of ocean life. This includes commercially and recreationally important fish such as rockfish as well as other species like sea stars and octopus. Bottom trawling poses the single greatest threat to seafloor habitats and, in turn, jeopardizes the greater health of the ocean ecosystem.

As you make a final determination on the conservation of essential fish habitat, you have the opportunity and responsibility to protect these resources, both for their intrinsic value and for the important benefit that these public resources provide us in return. Any changes to existing protection measures, including Rockfish Conservation Areas and Essential Fish Habitat Conservation Areas, should result in a net increase in protections for all habitat types, regionally and coast-wide. Furthermore, it would be irresponsible to reopen to bottom trawling any areas known to contain priority habitat features.

We urge you to adopt the essential fish habitat conservation alternative that is based on the proposal submitted by Oceana and others (Alterative 1b). Alternative 1b will increase the protection of seafloor habitats off the U.S. West Coast and keep open areas important for fisheries. We also urge you to adopt the protection of the deep-water habitat area off California (Alternative 3a). Protecting these important habitats will greatly benefit the ocean ecosystem and future generations, while maintaining vibrant and sustainable fisheries.

Sincerely,

27,715 residents of the United States and U.S. Territories, including 7,220 residents of California, Oregon, Washington, and Idaho.
