What an incredibly terrible and short sighted idea to open oil and gas leases off of the CA coast. Besides the obvious fact that we should be looking forward to renewal energy which makes economic sense (especially if we want to be competitive with China in the future who is racing down the road to be a leader in renewal energy), the only one who benefits is Big Oil.

Oil pipelines have soiled the CA coastline too often with oil spills which have created environment disasters, wreaked havoc on marine life and had a huge negative impact on coastal economies.

I own a yacht charter company in San Diego and an oil spill would be catastrophic for my business.
