METHODOLOGY

These are some of the findings of an Ipsos poll conducted between November 5-9, 2021, on behalf of Oceana. For this survey, a sample of roughly 366 adults age 18+ who are residents of New York were interviewed online in English.

The sample for this study was randomly drawn from Ipsos' online panel, partner online panel sources, and "river" sampling and does not rely on a population frame in the traditional sense. Ipsos uses fixed sample targets, unique to each study, in drawing a sample. After a sample has been obtained from the Ipsos panel, Ipsos calibrates respondent characteristics to be representative of the U.S. Population using standard procedures such as raking-ratio adjustments. The source of these population targets is U.S. Census 2019 American Community Survey data. The sample drawn for this study reflects fixed sample targets on demographics. Post-hoc weights were made to the population characteristics on gender, age, race/ethnicity, region, and education for the national sample and the statewide oversamples.

Statistical margins of error are not applicable to online non-probability polls. All sample surveys and polls may be subject to other sources of error, including, but not limited to coverage error and measurement error. Where figures do not sum to 100, this is due to the effects of rounding. The precision of Ipsos online polls is measured using a credibility interval. In this case, the poll has a credibility interval of plus or minus 6.3 percentage points for all New Yorkers. Ipsos calculates a design effect (DEFF) for each study based on the variation of the weights, following the formula of Kish (1965). This study had a credibility interval adjusted for design effect of the following (n=366, DEFF=1.5, adjusted Confidence Interval=+/-7.8 percentage points).

The poll also has a credibility interval plus or minus 6.8 percentage points for New York registered voters.

Plastic Pollution Concern

Concern Over Plastic Pollution

How concerned are you about plastic pollution and its impact on the environment and our oceans?

Base Sizes New Yorkers n=366; Registered Voters NY n=313

Concern Over Single-Use Plastics

Single-use plastics like beverage bottles, grocery bags, and takeout food containers are made from a material designed to last forever but are often used only once before polluting the Earth for years to come. Single-use plastic products are also the most common waste items picked up in beach cleanups worldwide.

How concerned are you about single-use plastic products?

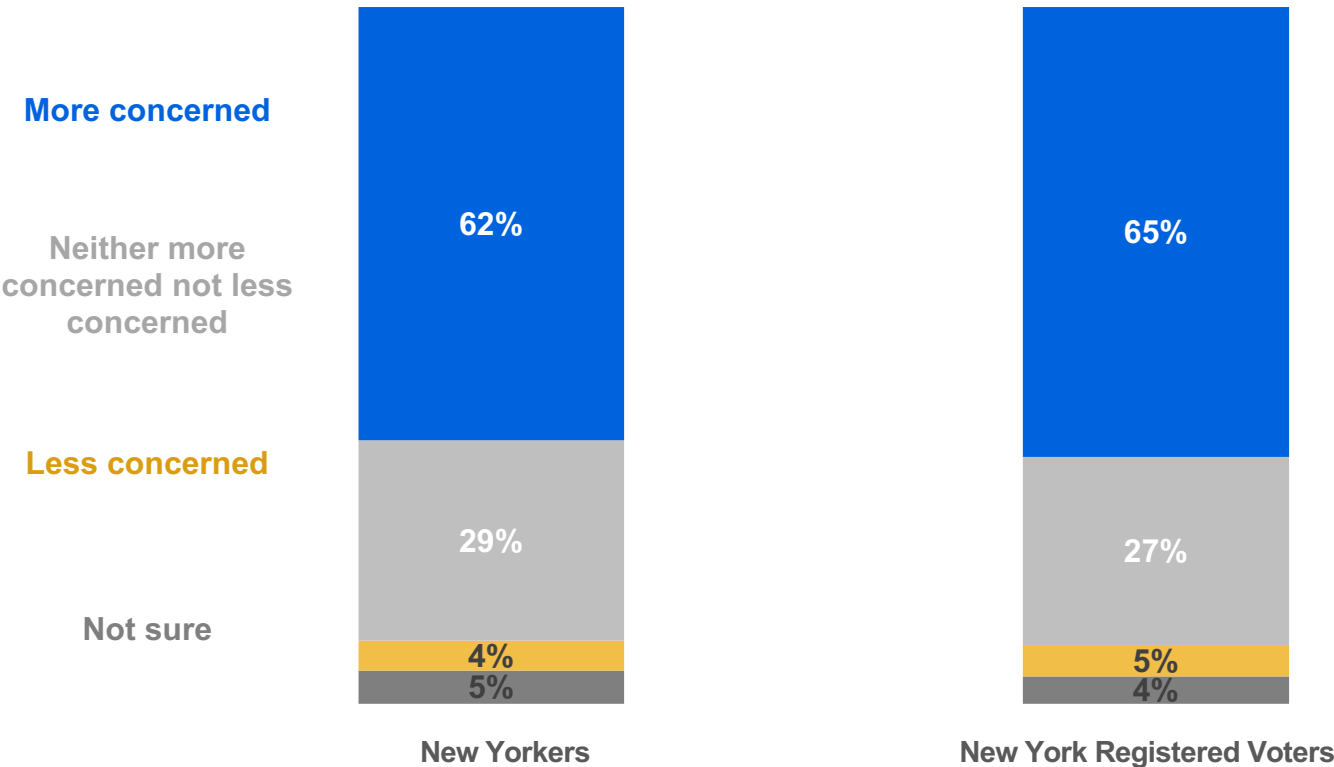

Base Sizes New Yorkers n=366; Registered Voters NY n=313

Recycling Facts' Impact on Single-Use Plastic Concern

Even though many of us are putting plastic in recycling bins, less than 9% of the United States' plastic waste is recycled. The rest is landfilled, exported, incinerated, or discarded into the environment.

Knowing this, are you more or less concerned about single-use plastic products?
